

My Prosperity Story
Marguerite, Law of Attraction Haven

Published: February 2015

Edited: May 2024

I have always said, and more importantly believed, that the streets of Earth are covered with millions and millions of dollars. There is money everywhere!

It can be found on sidewalks, in car parks, grates, gutters, washrooms, rubbish bins, suitcases, department store fitting rooms, down the backs of theater seats, in library books, under car seats - it is literally everywhere.

I picked up a little piece of those millions just the other day.

My son, Ryan, and I were parking for soccer training. He trains in a beautiful, tree-lined suburb that is very popular and buzzes with restaurants, bars, theaters and stunning gardens and parks. It is full of happy people with their families and four-legged friends. If there's a downside, it's that there's not always an abundance of car parks.

As I drive into the area, I affirm that parking spots are easy to find. I generally drive into nice, big, wide, easy parks. It doesn't always happen, but it does close to 95% of the time.

On this particular day, we got the last park on the left-hand side of my favorite street. Just prior to stopping the car, I noticed a park on the other side of the street. I felt spoiled for choice.

As I pointed to the car park on the other side of the street, I said to Ryan, "Maybe I should move over to that park so it will be easier to drive out when we're leaving." The car park on the other side of the street was facing in the direction of the way home.

I deliberated for a few seconds and then I decided to stay where we were because I was driving my husband's car. I consider myself to be a great driver, but my hubby's car, as beautiful as it is, is way too big, fast and heavy for my liking. I just can't maneuver it as well as I can my own car. So, we stayed put.

We got ourselves organized, picked up water bottles, training bags, shoes, hats and shin pads. I watched Ryan open his door and our eyes immediately fell onto the glorious $100 dollar note that was waiting there for us in the gutter. It was sitting upright facing us behind a few leaves. The tiniest of tiny gusts of wind would've blown it away.

There was not another soul around, so we picked it up and rejoiced! The first thing I noticed was how new and clean it was - so perfect!

Ryan immediately started negotiating how much of that hundred dollars would be his – he's not silly!

Everything was in alignment:

- It was a very still afternoon with no wind, so the note didn't blow away.
- I was driving my husband's car. If I was in my car I would have moved across the street.

- Even though the area is normally alive with people, there was not a single soul on either side of the street.
- It was the last park on our side of the street.

A Beautiful Australian $100 Note

Yes, there was someone that afternoon that may have lost that one hundred dollar note. I say may have lost because I don't really know. Someone may have purposely put it there, and waited incognito, to see the joy it would bring another. Yes, there are people who do that kind of stuff! Who knows how it got there. That isn't up to me to ponder.

I do know that the universe was responding to my frequency, which is tilted in a great way towards prosperity.

What we think, is the reality that we're living, and my perception has always been that the streets of Earth are lined with millions of dollars.

I find money on the street frequently - the hundred-dollar bill is the largest. Ryan hopped out of our car when I dropped him at school the other day and there was a shiny $2 coin smiling up at him. I was walking into the hairdresser and found $20 in the gutter. I even find foreign money. I was recently at a lovely restaurant in a beautiful part of our city and found Canadian money.

If you've ever visited my website, you will know that I wholeheartedly believe in prosperity and abundance. I know the abundance I need will make its way to me when I need it. I don't get too hung up on the specifics of how it's going to manifest. I'm not always 100% successful at this, but when I am all kinds of amazing things happen.

Ryan got $25 of the one hundred dollars. That is equivalent to 5 weeks of pocket money in one fell swoop!

I hope by reading this you will shift your perception to that of a wealthy, abundant, rich, prosperous mindset. It really is a beautiful world that we live in.

Abundance in every form, not just money, is thriving and expanding all around you. It is yours for the taking!

I have learned about abundance from many different sources. My favorites are through affirmations from Louise Hay, Catherine Ponder and Florence Scovel Shinn.

I've also learned a lot about prosperity, and so much more, from Neville Goddard and his books, and Abraham Hicks via Esther and Jerry Hicks.

There are hundreds of books on wealth and prosperity on my website. They are all 100% free for you to enjoy and share with your friends and family.

I have also prospered through beautiful prayers offered in Neville Goddard's and Joseph Murphy's books and lectures. Both of these gentlemen were taught by Abdullah, a wise, Ethiopian mystic.

It's Not Money We're Searching For

We think it's money we're searching for, but in reality, we really want the feelings that money brings.

- Having money to live happily brings us feelings of peace and contentment.
- Money enables us to do what our heart desires, bringing us feelings of joy.
- Money allows us to give freely with love to humankind.

My wish is that opulence will flow into your life on every level and that you will come to know how infinitely blessed and beautiful you are.