WHO YOU ARE

Who you are is value.

Who you are is capable of anything you desire.

Who you are is the center of the universe.

Who you are is the hub, not the spoke.

Who you are is the source out here on the leading edge.

Who you are is an extension of source energy who gets to sift through details for the pleasure and delight of doing it.

Who you are is the extension of source who feels only appreciation for wherever you are.

Who you are is an extension of consciousness who does not seek to prove value and worthiness to anyone.

Who you are is an extension of consciousness who can take it into any pleasing place, not because you’re supposed to, but because you want to.

- Abraham Hicks